

Teachers, Toddlers, and Tissues: Candid Conversations on Health and Child Care

Join well-known early childhood education specialist Rachel Giannini and pediatrician Dr. Dipesh Navsaria as they discuss how early childhood educators can improve the health and well-being of the children and families in their daily care, avoid unnecessary health-related exclusions from that care, and become better informed and prepared early childhood care & education providers. Teachers, Toddlers and Tissues aims to address commonly asked questions about health concerns in child care settings, covering topics including viral illness, mental and behavioral health, feeding, children with special needs, cultural diversity and inclusion, referrals to community resources, and so much more.

This podcast is funded by the Wisconsin Department of Children and Families, and sponsored by the American Academy of Pediatrics' Council on Early Childhood.

Listen & subscribe to the podcast on your favorite platform.
Learn more on the Early Childhood Health Consultation's website:
www.echc.wisc.edu/podcast/

