Re: Renumbering of Administrative Rules

On July 1, 2008, the Division of Children and Family Services in the old Department of Health and Family Services (DHFS), as well as parts of the Department of Workforce Development, became the new Department of Children and Families (DCF). Therefore, the old DHFS/Division of Children and Family Services administrative rules that are now administered by DCF/Division of Safety and Permanence have been renumbered as DCF rules. All of these rules maintain the same numbers but with the new DCF prefix (e.g., Ch. HFS 56 is now Ch. DCF 56). All references to child welfare administrative rules will now be with the new DCF number.

The chart attached at the end of this memo shows the conversion from the HFS numbers to the new DCF numbers. Note that other rules administered by DCF pertaining to child care financial assistance and child support have been renumbered in addition to having a change in prefix.
