Question		Answer
1	Is there any change to Entered Employment backdating? The current 0609 standards disregard any EE that is entered with a date greater than 90 days in the past.	Proposed Answer: Change backdating allowance for entered employments from 90 days to 30 days to emphasize our expectation that agencies are having frequent contact at a minimum of monthly with participants they are serving. This change will impact Entered Employment, Job Entry, Retention, and Job Skills Training measures. This would also allow reports to be available 2 months sooner than currently is available.
2	In the Job Entry measure we are measuring an unduplicated count of participants who obtain employment with the exclusion of CMF only cases. If a CMF case obtains another EE, should we include that case in the numerator and denominator?	Proposed Answer: CMF only participants will not be counted in the Job Entry measurement even if they obtain other employment. By excluding a group of participants unless they benefit the agency numerator it dilutes the actual measure.
