Date of Incident: March 10, 2014

Description of the incident, including the suspected cause of death, injury or egregious abuse or neglect:

On March 12, 2014, the agency received a report regarding a five-month-old child with several bruises to her upper and lower extremities. The agency and law enforcement conducted a joint investigation into the child's suspicious injuries. The mother and the mother's boyfriend reported the child received her bruises from rolling and hitting her head on the side of the crib. There were no other explanations provided by the mother or the mother's boyfriend for the child's extensive bruising.

Upon viewing the child, the agency and law enforcement determined the mother's and the mother's boyfriend's explanation did not coincide with the child's bruising. The agency concluded the child needed medical attention due to the extent of bruising to her forehead. Medical professionals who examined the child suspected head trauma and leg fractures due to the child's presenting symptoms, so the child was transported to another hospital.

During the course of the assessment, there was conflicting information as to how the injuries could have happened and who was providing care for the child when the injuries occurred. The mother and the mother's boyfriend stated a neighbor had also watched the child during the timeframe that medical professionals determined the child's injuries occurred. The mother's boyfriend stated his eighteen-month-old child fell on the five-month-old child and this caused a large bruise to the five-month-old child's forehead. The mother's boyfriend reported it also could have occurred while the child lays on her stomach as she tries to push herself up, this causes her to fall and hit her head on her toys or the floor. The mother later reported that her boyfriend told her the child fell out of her crib.

Medical professionals concluded the child's injuries were non-accidental and consistent with child abuse. No criminal charges have been filed in this case, but the investigation remains open.

Findings by agency, including maltreatment determination and material circumstances leading to incident:

The agency collaborated with law enforcement and medical personnel to complete the assessment. The Initial Assessment completed by the agency found a preponderance of the evidence to substantiate physical abuse to the child by an unknown maltreater and child neglect by the mother and mother's boyfriend. The mother and the mother's boyfriend did not seek medical attention for the child until after agency and law enforcement involvement. Medical professionals concluded the child's injuries were non-accidental and consistent with child abuse. The child was deemed unsafe, taken into Temporary Physical Custody, and placed in out-of-home care. A Child in Need of Protection or Services petition was filed and the case remained open to provide ongoing case management services.
