Section 1: Introduction

The Wisconsin Department of Children and Families (DCF) is committed to ensuring that all Wisconsin families have access to quality, affordable early care and education. A key component of this ongoing work is the Wisconsin Shares child care subsidy program, which helps make child care more affordable for working families.

Wisconsin Shares is funded through the federal Child Care Development Fund \(CCDF\). The CCDF funding provided to states, tribes, and territories is administered by the federal Administration for Children and Families (ACF) Office of Child Care (OCC) and is the primary public funding source for child care services across the state.

CCDF regulations require Lead Agencies to certify that their child care subsidy payment rates are sufficient to ensure equal access to care for children who are eligible for subsidy when compared to children in the private pay market. In addition, Lead Agencies must complete two analyses every three years:

- A Market Rate Survey (MRS) to understand child care provider prices and the buying power of the child care subsidy, and
- A Narrow Cost Analysis to understand the true costs of providing quality child care.

The 2024 Market Rate Survey meets these CCDF requirements. This 2025 Market Rate Survey builds on information from the 2024 Survey and provides DCF, policymakers, and other child care stakeholders with up-to-date information about the price of child care and the buying power of Wisconsin Shares.

Key findings include:

- Child care provider prices have increased in recent years, including between the last administration of the Market Rate Survey in December 2023 and the most recent administration of the survey in March 2025.
- Because of these price increases, the buying power of Wisconsin Shares has decreased. In 2022, the maximum Wisconsin Shares rate was at or above the price of 74 percent of slots. In 2023, it was at or above the price of 50 percent of slots. In 2025, it is at or above the price of 41 percent of slots.

Section 2: Market Rate Survey

Purpose: The Market Rate Survey is intended to show:

- Full-time provider prices at various geographies, provider types, and age ranges; and
- The buying power of the Wisconsin Shares subsidy.

Data Collection: Provider prices for the Market Rate Survey are collected by Thriving Wisconsin and Wisconsin's Child Care Resource and Referral Network through the Business Information Form (BIF). The BIF is the source for estimates of monthly market rates for full-time child care by provider type, age group, and geographic location. An example of the BIF can be viewed on the 4C website, a member of the Child Care Resource and Referral Network.

The following types of regulated child care providers were surveyed as part of the 2025 Market Rate Survey:

- Licensed family providers, who provide care for between four and eight children. This care is usually in the provider's home.
- Licensed group providers, which provide care for nine or more children. These centers are usually located somewhere other than a residence and may be small or large in size.

As shown in Table 1, 74 percent of Licensed providers participated in the 2025 Market Rate Survey, and 47 percent of licensed providers met all criteria to be included in the analysis.¹

Table 1 – 2025 Market Rate Survey Response Rate

Total Licensed Child Care Providers	Total Surveys Received	Response Rate	Total Surveys Used in Analysis	Percent of Licensed Providers Used for Analysis
3,883	2,886	74%	1,842	47%

Data for this 2025 Market Rate Survey is current as of March 2025.

¹ In order to analyze the full-time price charged to the private-paying market, DCF excluded the following providers from the analysis: providers without a weekly, monthly, or daily full-time price; providers with more than 75% of children participating in Wisconsin Shares; providers that are not open at least 5 hours per day for 5 days per week; and providers with data entry errors. For 2025, this means that instead of using 74% of licensed providers to assess prices, DCF used 47% of licensed providers to assess prices. To verify these exclusions did not bias the results, DCF also analyzed the prices without all of these exclusions, including 66% of licensed providers. This resulted a comparable percentage of affordable slots as those shown in Table 2.

Data Analysis: This analysis is focused on:

- Prices for full-time care, meaning that part-time prices are excluded.
- Prices in the private market, meaning that prices for providers serving more than 75 percent of children receiving Wisconsin Shares are excluded.

The analysis is specific to county, provider type (licensed family provider or licensed group provider), and the child's age for the slot.

To conduct the analysis, we compared each provider's slot price to the applicable Wisconsin Shares maximum rate to determine whether the maximum Wisconsin Shares rate was at or above the price for the slot. When the applicable Wisconsin Shares maximum rate was at or above the price, that slot was considered affordable. We then divided the number of affordable slots by the number of total slots to get the percentage of affordable slots statewide.

It's important to note that the term "affordable" has a specific definition for the purpose of this analysis. "Affordable" is used to describe a slot for which the maximum Wisconsin Shares rate is at or above the provider price for that slot. It is not a general measure of whether the price of child care is affordable for families. For example, most families who utilize Wisconsin Shares are authorized for less than the maximum Wisconsin Shares rate. Likewise, many families are not eligible for Wisconsin Shares and pay the full price out of pocket.

Results: According to this analysis, 41 percent of child care slots statewide are affordable, meaning that the price of the slot is at or below the applicable maximum Wisconsin Shares rate for that slot.

Table 2 – Percentage of Affordable Slots, 2025

Available Slot Data	MRS 2025
Affordable Slots	39,196
Available Slots	95,782
Percentage of Affordable Slots	41%

Forty-one percent is well below the target for affordability. The affordability threshold set by both the federal Administration for Children and Families and Wisconsin Statute is that 75 percent of child care slots should be affordable.

Forty-one percent also represents a significant decline from the prior Market Rate Survey, which found that in 2023, 50 percent of child care slots were considered affordable.

The decline in the percentage of affordable slots between 2023 and 2025 corresponds with an increase in provider prices. While maximum Wisconsin Shares rates have stayed constant since January 2022, their purchasing power has declined as a result of provider price increases.

To illustrate the change in provider prices over time, chart 1 shows prices for infant child care in rural and, separately, urban areas between 2006 and 2025. The round (rural) and square (urban) markers indicate the average price (i.e., 50th percentile or median) each time the Market Rate Survey was conducted. The lower (red) and upper (green) markers indicate the 25th and 75th percentile of price, respectively. The chart also includes “R” markers whenever Wisconsin Shares maximum rates were raised. The “R” markers show the approximate buying power of the Wisconsin Shares maximum rate at that time.

Chart 1 – Provider Prices Over Time

As shown in chart 1, provider prices have increased over time, with increases between 2022 and 2025 that are larger than predicted by prior years' trends.

It is important to note that Child Care Counts payments to providers were reduced by half in May 2023 in order to stay within the budget allocated for the program. According to research conducted by the UW-Madison Institute for Research on Poverty, providers use Child Care Counts funds to cover core expenses such as payroll, materials, rent, and utilities, thereby avoiding passing those costs along to families. When Child Care Counts payments were reduced, providers were forced to pass some of these costs along to families in the form of increased prices.

For more information on the range of provider prices across the state, Tables 3-6 show the 25th, 50th, and 75th percentile of weekly full-time prices in communities at different levels of urbanicity (0-24 percent urban, 25-49 percent urban, 51-74 percent urban, and 75-100 percent urban).

Figure 1 provides a map showing which zone of urbanicity each county is in. The prices are specific to provider type and age group.

As an example for reading the following tables: In communities that are between 0 and 24 percent urban, 25 percent of slots for children aged 0-1 in licensed family child program are at or below $150 per week, 50 percent of slots are at or below $175 per week, and 75 percent of slots are at or below $195 per week.

Section 3: Conclusion

The Market Rate Survey demonstrates that:

- Child care provider prices have increased between 2023 and 2025.
- Because of these price increases, the buying power of Wisconsin Shares has decreased. In 2022, the maximum Wisconsin Shares rate was at or above the price of 74 percent of slots. In 2023, it was at or above the price of 50 percent of slots. In 2025, it is at or above the price of 41 percent of slots.

DCF remains committed to finding innovative solutions and long-term investments that support making child care more affordable for Wisconsin families and empower child care programs and educators in providing the quality care all Wisconsin kids deserve.

DCF will continue to conduct this Market Rate Analysis to inform these critical efforts.
